

2018 英语 (一) Part A · Text 2

文章主题	通读后用一句话自行概括
限时阶段	18-22 分钟：先看题干，不看选项；读文不查词
笔译阶段	按段笔译、按段核对；先写粗译，不追求参考译文式中文
重做阶段	全文核对完成后，统一重做 26-30 题
第二天	遮住译文重读、重做题、复查错因与替换词

连续干净原文用于真实检测；笔译原文用于逐段输出；原文修改页用于在英文上订正。答案与解析请对照纸质版。

限时第一读：先看 5 个英文题干，不看选项

No.	Question stem - English only	Signal
26	According to Paragraphs 1 and 2, many young Americans cast doubt on
27	The phrase "beef up" (Line 2, Para. 2) is closest in meaning to
28	According to the Knight Foundation survey, young people
29	The Barna survey found that a main cause for the fake news problem is
30	Which of the following would be the best title for the text?

标出生词但不停下；标出转折/因果/让步；读到相关段落才回来看选项。

我的英文题干导航标记

2

2 干净原文 A：限时读文

现在开始计时。此处没有结构、词义或逻辑提示；读到相应段落，就做相应题目。

[P1] A new survey by Harvard University finds more than two-thirds of young Americans disapprove of President Trump's use of Twitter. The implication is that Millennials prefer news from the White House to be filtered through other sources, not a president's social media platform.

[P2] Most Americans rely on social media to check daily headlines. Yet as distrust has risen toward all media, people may be starting to beef up their media literacy skills. Such a trend is badly needed. During the 2016 presidential campaign, nearly a quarter of web content shared by Twitter users in the politically critical state of Michigan was fake news, according to the University of Oxford. And a survey conducted for BuzzFeed News found 44 percent of Facebook users rarely or never trust news from the media giant.

[P3] Young people who are digital natives are indeed becoming more skillful at separating fact from fiction in cyberspace. A Knight Foundation focus-group survey of young people between ages 14 and 24 found they use "distributed trust" to verify stories. They cross-check sources and prefer news from different perspectives—especially those that are open about any bias. "Many young people assume a great deal of personal responsibility for educating themselves and actively seeking out opposing viewpoints," the survey concluded.

[P4] Such active research can have another effect. A 2014 survey conducted in Australia, Britain, and the United States by the University of Wisconsin-Madison found that young people's reliance on social media led to greater political engagement.

[P5] Social media allows users to experience news events more intimately and immediately while also permitting them to re-share news as a projection of their values and interests. This forces users to be more conscious of their role in passing along information. A survey by Barna research group found the top reason given by Americans for the fake news phenomenon is "reader error," more so than made-up stories or factual mistakes in reporting. About a third say the problem of fake news lies in "misinterpretation or exaggeration of actual news" via social media. In other words, the choice to share news on social media may be the heart of the issue. "This indicates there is a real personal responsibility in counteracting this problem," says Roxanne Stone, editor in chief at Barna Group.

[P6] So when young people are critical of an over-tweeting president, they reveal a mental discipline in thinking skills—and in their choices on when to share on social media.

2.2

第一次做题：作答 26-30 题

现在才看选项。先独立完成五道题；需要时回原文定位。

26. According to Paragraphs 1 and 2, many young Americans cast doubt on

- [A] the justification of the news-filtering practice.
- [B] people's preference for social media platforms.
- [C] the administration's ability to handle information.
- [D] social media as a reliable source of news.

27. The phrase "beef up" (Line 2, Para. 2) is closest in meaning to

- [A] boast.
- [B] define.
- [C] sharpen.
- [D] share.

28. According to the Knight Foundation survey, young people

- [A] tend to voice their opinions in cyberspace.
- [B] verify news by referring to diverse sources.
- [C] have a strong sense of social responsibility.
- [D] like to exchange views on "distributed trust".

29. The Barna survey found that a main cause for the fake news problem is

- [A] readers' misinterpretation.
- [B] journalists' biased reporting.
- [C] readers' outdated values.
- [D] journalists' made-up stories.

30. Which of the following would be the best title for the text?

- [A] A Counteraction Against the Over-tweeting Trend
- [B] A Rise in Critical Skills for Sharing News Online
- [C] The Accumulation of Mutual Trust on Social Media
- [D] The Platforms for Projection of Personal Interests

3.1

第 1 段：逐句笔译与原文订正

直接在英文上标记主干和逻辑；长句留两行，短句留一行。

S1 A new survey by Harvard University finds more than two-thirds of young Americans disapprove of President Trump's use of Twitter.

S2 The implication is that Millennials prefer news from the White House to be filtered through other sources, not a president's social media platform.

本段英语原文（按句分行）

S1 A new survey by Harvard University finds more than two-thirds of young Americans disapprove of President Trump's use of Twitter.

S2 The implication is that Millennials prefer news from the White House to be filtered through other sources, not a president's social media platform.

段落中心思想（用一句话概括）

3.2

第 2 段：逐句笔译与原文订正

直接在英文上标记主干和逻辑；长句留两行，短句留一行。

S1 Most Americans rely on social media to check daily headlines.

S2 Yet as distrust has risen toward all media, people may be starting to beef up their media literacy skills.

S3 Such a trend is badly needed.

S4 During the 2016 presidential campaign, nearly a quarter of web content shared by Twitter users in the politically critical state of Michigan was fake news, according to the University of Oxford.

S5 And a survey conducted for BuzzFeed News found 44 percent of Facebook users rarely or never trust news from the media giant.

本段英语原文（按句分行）

S1 Most Americans rely on social media to check daily headlines.

S2 Yet as distrust has risen toward all media, people may be starting to beef up their media literacy skills.

S3 Such a trend is badly needed.

S4 During the 2016 presidential campaign, nearly a quarter of web content shared by Twitter users in the politically critical state of Michigan was fake news, according to the University of Oxford.

S5 And a survey conducted for BuzzFeed News found 44 percent of Facebook users rarely or never trust news from the media giant.

段落中心思想（用一句话概括）

3.3

第 3 段：逐句笔译与原文订正

直接在英文上标记主干和逻辑；长句留两行，短句留一行。

S1 Young people who are digital natives are indeed becoming more skillful at separating fact from fiction in cyberspace.

S2 A Knight Foundation focus-group survey of young people between ages 14 and 24 found they use "distributed trust" to verify stories.

S3 They cross-check sources and prefer news from different perspectives-especially those that are open about any bias.

S4 "Many young people assume a great deal of personal responsibility for educating themselves and actively seeking out opposing viewpoints," the survey concluded.

本段英语原文（按句分行）

S1 Young people who are digital natives are indeed becoming more skillful at separating fact from fiction in cyberspace.

S2 A Knight Foundation focus-group survey of young people between ages 14 and 24 found they use "distributed trust" to verify stories.

S3 They cross-check sources and prefer news from different perspectives-especially those that are open about any bias.

S4 "Many young people assume a great deal of personal responsibility for educating themselves and actively seeking out opposing viewpoints," the survey concluded.

段落中心思想（用一句话概括）

3.4

第 4 段：逐句笔译与原文订正

直接在英文上标记主干和逻辑；长句留两行，短句留一行。

S1 Such active research can have another effect.

S2 A 2014 survey conducted in Australia, Britain, and the United States by the University of Wisconsin-Madison found that young people's reliance on social media led to greater political engagement.

本段英语原文（按句分行）

S1 Such active research can have another effect.

S2 A 2014 survey conducted in Australia, Britain, and the United States by the University of Wisconsin-Madison found that young people's reliance on social media led to greater political engagement.

段落中心思想（用一句话概括）

3.5

第 5 段：逐句笔译与原文订正

直接在英文上标记主干和逻辑；长句留两行，短句留一行。

S1 Social media allows users to experience news events more intimately and immediately while also permitting them to re-share news as a projection of their values and interests.

S2 This forces users to be more conscious of their role in passing along information.

S3 A survey by Bama research group found the top reason given by Americans for the fake news phenomenon is "reader error," more so than made-up stories or factual mistakes in reporting.

S4 About a third say the problem of fake news lies in "misinterpretation or exaggeration of actual news" via social media.

S5 In other words, the choice to share news on social media may be the heart of the issue.

S6 "This indicates there is a real personal responsibility in counteracting this problem," says Roxanne Stone, editor in chief at Barna Group.

本段英语原文（按句分行）

S1 Social media allows users to experience news events more intimately and immediately while also permitting them to re-share news as a projection of their values and interests.

S2 This forces users to be more conscious of their role in passing along information.

S3 A survey by Bama research group found the top reason given by Americans for the fake news phenomenon is "reader error," more so than made-up stories or factual mistakes in reporting.

S4 About a third say the problem of fake news lies in "misinterpretation or exaggeration of actual news" via social media.

S5 In other words, the choice to share news on social media may be the heart of the issue.

S6 "This indicates there is a real personal responsibility in counteracting this problem," says Roxanne Stone, editor in chief at Barna Group.

段落中心思想（用一句话概括）

3.6

第 6 段：逐句笔译与原文订正

直接在英文上标记主干和逻辑；长句留两行，短句留一行。

S1 So when young people are critical of an over-tweeting president, they reveal a mental discipline in thinking skills-and in their choices on when to share on social media.

本段英语原文（按句分行）

S1 So when young people are critical of an over-tweeting president, they reveal a mental discipline in thinking skills-and in their choices on when to share on social media.

段落中心思想（用一句话概括）

4

全文核对后：正式重做 26-30 题

再次独立作答。只看题干和选项；需要时回原文圈出定位句。

26. According to Paragraphs 1 and 2, many young Americans cast doubt on

- [A] the justification of the news-filtering practice.
- [B] people's preference for social media platforms.
- [C] the administration's ability to handle information.
- [D] social media as a reliable source of news.

27. The phrase "beef up" (Line 2, Para. 2) is closest in meaning to

- [A] boast.
- [B] define.
- [C] sharpen.
- [D] share.

28. According to the Knight Foundation survey, young people

- [A] tend to voice their opinions in cyberspace.
- [B] verify news by referring to diverse sources.
- [C] have a strong sense of social responsibility.
- [D] like to exchange views on "distributed trust".

29. The Barna survey found that a main cause for the fake news problem is

- [A] readers' misinterpretation.
- [B] journalists' biased reporting.
- [C] readers' outdated values.
- [D] journalists' made-up stories.

30. Which of the following would be the best title for the text?

- [A] A Counteraction Against the Over-tweeting Trend
- [B] A Rise in Critical Skills for Sharing News Online
- [C] The Accumulation of Mutual Trust on Social Media
- [D] The Platforms for Projection of Personal Interests

5 原文 D：选项定位勾画

全篇核读后再读一遍原文；直接圈画每道题的定位句、关键词和同义替换。

[P1] A new survey by Harvard University finds more than two-thirds of young Americans disapprove of President Trump's use of Twitter. The implication is that Millennials prefer news from the White House to be filtered through other sources, not a president's social media platform.

[P2] Most Americans rely on social media to check daily headlines. Yet as distrust has risen toward all media, people may be starting to beef up their media literacy skills. Such a trend is badly needed. During the 2016 presidential campaign, nearly a quarter of web content shared by Twitter users in the politically critical state of Michigan was fake news, according to the University of Oxford. And a survey conducted for BuzzFeed News found 44 percent of Facebook users rarely or never trust news from the media giant.

[P3] Young people who are digital natives are indeed becoming more skillful at separating fact from fiction in cyberspace. A Knight Foundation focus-group survey of young people between ages 14 and 24 found they use "distributed trust" to verify stories. They cross-check sources and prefer news from different perspectives—especially those that are open about any bias. "Many young people assume a great deal of personal responsibility for educating themselves and actively seeking out opposing viewpoints," the survey concluded.

[P4] Such active research can have another effect. A 2014 survey conducted in Australia, Britain, and the United States by the University of Wisconsin-Madison found that young people's reliance on social media led to greater political engagement.

[P5] Social media allows users to experience news events more intimately and immediately while also permitting them to re-share news as a projection of their values and interests. This forces users to be more conscious of their role in passing along information. A survey by Barna research group found the top reason given by Americans for the fake news phenomenon is "reader error," more so than made-up stories or factual mistakes in reporting. About a third say the problem of fake news lies in "misinterpretation or exaggeration of actual news" via social media. In other words, the choice to share news on social media may be the heart of the issue. "This indicates there is a real personal responsibility in counteracting this problem," says Roxanne Stone, editor in chief at Barna Group.

[P6] So when young people are critical of an over-tweeting president, they reveal a mental discipline in thinking skills—and in their choices on when to share on social media.

全文压缩与第二天复读

段落	段落功能	一句话压缩（自己写）
P1
P2
P3
P4
P5
P6

- ☐ 我能用 30 秒说清全文主线：_____
- ☐ 我能遮住答案重做 26-30：_____
- ☐ 我仍会错 / 不顺的点：_____
- ☐ 下次遇到相似结构，我要先看：_____